

DRUGGISTS ARE KEPT VERY BUSY

Many Persons Here Relieved of Suffering With Simple Recipe.

That the readers of this paper appreciate advice when given in good faith is plainly demonstrated by the fact that one well known local pharmacy supplied the ingredients for the "vegetable prescription" many times within the past two weeks. The announcement of this simple, harmless mixture has certainly accomplished much in reducing the great many cases of kidney complaint and rheumatism here, relieving pain and misery, especially among the older population, who are always suffering more or less with bladder and urinary troubles, backache and particularly rheumatism.

Another well known druggist asks us to continue the announcement of the prescription. It is doing so much real good here, he confesses, that it would be a crime not to do so. It can not be repeated too often, and further states many cases of remarkable cures wrought.

THE OLD TIMER ON THE SUNDAY LAW

"What do you think of Albuquerque's Blue Law?" asked the Reporter as he came upon the Oldtimer laying in a supply of Sunday cigars in the corner drug store.

"I don't think of it any more than I can help," answered the Oldtimer, with an unusual note of asperity in his tone. "It gives me neurosthenia."

The reporter hastily consulted his pocket dictionary.

"Fidgets," interrupted the Oldtimer. "It makes me nervous wondering what is going to bob up next, and what kind of a pickle Albuquerque is going to get itself into. It looks to me like a case of somebody starting a good thing that they can't stop."

"Well, but what do you suggest as the solution to the dilemma?" queried the Reporter.

"Oh, if a solution is wanted, that's easy. Common sense can settle the Sunday closing question in five minutes. The trouble isn't to find a solution, but that there seems to be a sentiment at work that doesn't want it solved."

"Everybody knows that a law not backed by the public is a dead one, and whatever the reading of the Sunday law is, we all know that there must be a line drawn somewhere between who shall labor on Sunday and who shall not. Nobody would say there was any necessity for a lumber yard operating on Sunday,

TAMBIAN

It's about time to make a noise like a turkey.

With Thanksgiving, Congress and Christmas all coming along in a bunch, these are indeed busy days.

It's getting so close to Christmas that the fellow who continues to call steadily on the same old girl, advertises to all the world that he is really in love.

Seasick. The man stood on the heaving deck, whence all but him had fled.

One hand clasped the railing and the other held his head.

Three little Albuquerque girls stole three little dolls the other day from a local store. This is a reflection on the Teddy bear and should be stopped.

Harriman at last has a friend in need. A Paris beggar was arrested recently and railroad stocks to the value of several thousands of dollars were found in his clothing.

Making a College.

"Have all our buildings been paid for by Mr. Rockefeller?"

"Yes."

"Have we a football team?"

"Yes."

"And a coach?"

"Yes."

"And a college yell?"

"Yes."

"All right. Now we'll hire a few professors."

According to the Las Vegas Optic there is a decided distinction between a drunkenness and intoxication. The Optic says: Charles Reed was arrested by the city marshal Saturday evening for drunkenness and was fined $2.50 in Judge Brown's court this morning.

Adelardo Baca was arrested Saturday night by Officer Charles Kelly, charged with intoxication, and was given a hearing this morning before Justice of the Peace H. P. Brown. He pleaded guilty and was fined $5. The difference, it will be seen is $2.50.

WEDDING PRESENTS

SOMEWHAT DELAYED

They Arrived From Indiana, Though Shipped on Monday Day, When Babe Was Two Years Old.

"I had a consignment of furniture consisting of wedding presents given to my wife on the date of our marriage in Indiana, and shipped on the same day the wedding occurred, and that shipment reached Albuquerque when our baby boy was just a trifle under two years old. Figures for yourself." A young Albuquerque man, who has lived here for some years, but who courts privacy and insists that his name be unknown, made that remarkable statement. He continued:

"It was just a few weeks less than three years coming from Indiana. I had forgotten all about it, when one morning I got a card to call for some freight and I went to the freight office in doubt as to the meaning. I told the agent he must be mistaken, but he told me where the stuff came from and I tumbled. Both my wife and myself had ceased to think of the presents two years before, but as they were in good shape we were mighty glad to get them."

"When I first came here, I frequented the freight office every day or so, asking for the boxes which contained our precious presents, until the clerks got tired of seeing me. Then I dropped in about once a week and finally quit altogether."

"The trouble seemed to be that the consignment had to pass over three railroads, and that it managed to get lost on each one and to stay lost for months until the annual house cleaning time came when it was dug up and shipped another notch forward. The officials here would tell me that the other roads had not yet delivered it to the Santa Fe, but I considered that a bluff until a tracer was shown me, dated a few days before the goods reached me."

"It was sent out by the first road which handled the consignment and which wanted to know, evidently, why it failed to receive its freight money. That tracer showed the consignment 14 months traveling 65 miles on a short Indiana division, having stopped locally three times and last round at stations that length of time. The second road had it for nearly that long and the Santa Fe from Kansas City held it five months."

"You fellows who have freight held up three and six months had not ought to kick. Look at me and grin. Get married and maybe the railroads will rush the trains some in your favor."

"Smack," you could hear it all over the depot platform, and he had his arm around her too. He was about 40 and she was 30 and fair. A husky young fellow walked beside her carrying her grips and when the older man suddenly embraced the woman, the protector reached around and nearly yanked his shoulder out of joint.

"Get out of here or I'll kick the daylight out of you," he said.

"Say young fellow, what do you mean by jerking me around and talking like that. I'll knock your block off," and the two started to mix but a couple of trainmen stopped the fracas.

"Now then, what's the trouble?" demanded the conductor who had reached the scene.

"I am escorting my cousin to her home in California and this big lumber kissed her. I'll—but he was again restrained."

"This woman is my wife and I guess I have got a right to kiss her," said the older man.

"Of course he's my husband. It's all a mistake," declared the woman who had been so frightened that she had been unable to look closely at the new arrival until then.

"Where'd you come from anyhow, Jim? It this don't beat all," and she laughed hysterically.

The explanation, quickly given, was that the couple lived in California and that the wife had been each visiting relatives. Her cousin had decided to go to California, and when they got here, they left the train to secure a lunch. The husband, unable to wait until his wife got home to see her, had come to Albuquerque to meet her.

"Next time I try to surprise my wife I'll send her a telegram," he declared. "That cousin of hers is a husky guy all right and I'm proud he's in the family, but I won't take chances on any more cousins when there's kissing to be done."

The party left for the west late last night, still laughing over the joke which came near being serious.

The Majestic Manufacturing Co. of St. Louis, Mo., will have a man at the Wagner Hardware store all next week who will show you how to bake biscuits, brown top and bottom, in three minutes. Don't miss this chance of seeing the great cooking wonder.
